CCTV installers recognise the Witness name to mean straight-forward yet capable products that require the minimum installation. In the past the Witness range has been restricted to four channel observation kits that have provided many installers with an introduction to CCTV.

Witness has now grown up. Witness is the name for a new range of fantastic LCD monitors with integral digital video recorders from ESP. The new units in 4, 9 and 16 channel format offer the perfect combination of capability and stylish design. A far cry from some of the early Witness units, but still retaining the value for money feature packed solution that has embedded the Witness name in the CCTV market.

RadioLINK - Saves time, money and mess!

What is RadioLINK? It's a way of interconnecting alarms without having to run cables between them. It uses radio-frequency (RF) signals instead.

Why do I need it? If you're fitting alarms they must be interconnected together to comply with the standards and regs. The easiest way to do this is with RadioLINK.

What are the benefits? Because you don't have to run cables between alarms it saves on installation time. Also, there's no lifting up floorboards, removing carpets or redecoration - saving time, money and mess!

How do I fit it? All you need is a RadioLINK base under each alarm in the system. Each base then needs only a permanent mains feed (which can be taken from the nearest lighting circuit).

What alarms can I use? Any of our round easi-fit alarms can be fitted to a RadioLINK base. See the opposite page for details on our fully compatible Ei140 Series alarms.
